

Skoosh is a travel company built up on a range of technologies. We started working with Titan almost ten years ago when we hired their smallest shared hosting package. As we've grown so have our hosting requirements and now Titan hosts multiple servers for Skoosh, running complex processes 24/7.

Titan is one of the few discrete companies central to our business. To have the confidence in our continued development we need to know that our servers are well looked after. Things can (and do) happen at any time of day or night bringing Skoosh to a standstill. However, Titan is always there immediately, helping us to get things back up and running.

Titan's service is outstanding. They reply to emails faster than you can possibly imagine. They don't panic in crisis and they know their stuff. We've bought all our servers from Titan over the years and they have even assisted us with everything from choice of operating system to specific scripts for lowering server loads.

We highly recommend Titan to anyone and everyone.

Cheers,
